"The Religious News Service of the Arab World [now called AWR] is an important resource for students and researchers wishing to keep up to date with current events in the Middle East. Its reference to news reports from that region is well balanced. The method of providing initial summaries as well as accessible translations of key articles enables researchers to keep in touch in a way not otherwise possible. The RNSAW [now AWR] thus can serve as a key resource for focused research projects. An example is a report written on the situation of the Coptic Minority in Egypt, prepared by Drs. Cornelius Hulsman and Dr. Chawkat Moucary for the LBC Centre for Islamic Studies in 1999. The RNSAW [AWR] greatly facilitated the preparation of this excellent report."
